RACE ISSUE RAISED; KUHIO MANAGERS DO IT! FISHER PUTS MAINLAND GOVERNORSHIP TO FREAR AND KUHIO

SECRETARY'S KEEN QUESTIONS DRIVEN IN DEEPER TODAY

W. W. Goodale, Faxon Bishop, Governor And Delegate All Quizzed—Frear Says Against Non-Resident For Governor—Bishop Also—Kuhio Doubtful

Wajalua Finances And Production Cost Are Probed

Secretary of the Interior Fisher drove his questions deep into Hawaii's troubles today, and with his kindly but searching queries went to matters not usually discussed in public here, save perhaps on the political stump, a crowd of eager spectators hung almost breathless on his inquiries and their answers.

W. W. Goodale, manager of Wajalua Plantation, H. H. Bishop of Brewer Co., C. W. Ashford, Kuhio's attorney, Delegate Kuhio himself and Governor Frear were in turn subjected to a course of quizzing that was unusual in its frankness and directness.

The major portion of the morning was spent in hearing from Mr. Goodale and the Secretary's investigations went thoroughly into the matter of sugar production, while he turned the limelight of public questioning on the figures of cost of crop production to an unusual extent. After awhile, satisfied on these points, he called upon Mr. Bishop and then began a half-hour of discussion that revolved directly upon the question of whether or not as an abstract proposition it is possible to get a Governor from Hawaii who will not be tied up with the big interests, and whether or not there is opinion that the organic act should be amended so that a mainland resident can be appointed to the executive chair in this Territory.

Mr. Bishop, at the beginning of his statement, declared that in his mind a large part of Hawaii's troubles are due to misrepresentation of what should be done with the public lands. He said that as a result of this, somebody had to be the goat, and the goat was the Governor and the planters. He was asked by Mr. Fisher if it isn't a good deal harder for the Governor of Hawaii because any executive here faces the fact of mixed and preponderant interests and is likely to be himself heavily interested in big business here. The Secretary went further than this.

"It is charged," he said, "that because the Governor is connected by family ties with large interests, he is naturally predisposed to see one side of the controversy. What do you think of that?"

Mr. Bishop replied that he believed that is magnified a good deal, and stated further that he believes there are men here who would be independent of either side in such a controversy.

"What I'm fighting shy of," said Bishop amid laughter, "is this idea of a Governor from the mainland."

Fisher said: "I understand therefore you hesitate to give an opinion until you find out where we're coming out at."

Mr. Bishop declared emphatically that he thinks it's up to the administration at Washington to tell Hawaii she's got to produce a man who does make good as governor, and that Hawaii can get through this controversy all right, as it has gotten through a good many others.

CAUCUS IS CALLED TO BIND VOTERS ON ANDREWS' TICKET

Delegate Going Into County Convention

Holding the Territorial convention, as he believes, in the hollow of his hand, Delegate Kuhio has let fall the curtain of secrecy which has cloaked his movements and, despite all previous emphatic protestation to the contrary, has given evidence of his intention of attempting to capture the county and district convention and to carry on his fight for this purpose on the race issue. In this fight Lorrin Andrews is his chief manager and engineer.

Kuhio and his backers unmask themselves through a postal card sent this morning to all delegates to the Republican county and district convention, and which is characterized as the most remarkable communication ever issued from local political headquarters. It bears the signature of the Kuhio committee, the members of which by affixing their names go on record as raising the race issue at a time when the welfare of Hawaii hinges on harmony.

The postal card calling for the meeting at which it is planned to raise the cry of the "Masses against the Classes," the Hawaiians against Honolulu, T. H., September 11th, 1912.

You are requested to attend a caucus of all delegates to the Republican County and District Convention who are favorable to the Hon. Jonah Kuhio Kalaniana'ole and his attempt to rebuild the Republican organization and rescue it from those who now control it.
The caucus will be held at Notley Hall, Kukui St., Honolulu, at 7:30 o'clock P. M. on Saturday, Sept. 14th, 1912.

the "holes," shows through erasures and other changes that in the original it was stronger than when sent to the postoffice for delivery.

The wording of the call is published herewith, a dash showing where some word, probably "clique," or something of the kind, has been erased.

Behind the calling of this caucus is the story of political maneuvering by Lorrin Andrews in an attempt to regain the political power that was torn from his hand ago when he was practically driven from a voice among party leaders. Also behind this there is the boast from Kuhio headquarters that the "straight Hawaiian" ticket is to be voted except in a few isolated cases, and that out of the candidates who were endorsed by the business men some weeks ago and who still are candidates, are marked for defeat.

The caucus is called to issue the instructions to this end. The county convention is to be filled, if possible, by delegates pledged to support Kuhio and Andrews and the race-issue ticket they are framing up. In an attempt to carry favor with certain political elements and to conceal their real purpose, they are proposing to endorse C. G. Bartlett, Jim Quinn, J. B. Enos and John Waterhouse for supervisors. Bartlett is not opposed, anyway. Waterhouse is not a candidate, and Enos is endorsed to secure Portuguese support.

ENLISTED MEN TESTIFY AT VETS. COURT-MARTIAL

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
SCHOFIELD BARRACKS, Sept. 12.—The Vans Agnew court-martial of yesterday ran its course without much incident, the time being devoted almost exclusively to the examination of a number of enlisted men.

These were introduced by the prosecution to substantiate the testimony of Drs. Willyoung and Haynes, who had testified on the first day as to Dr. Agnew's comments on his juniors in his official relations with those officers.

One of these enlisted men in testifying unwittingly let a great secret of the veterinary profession be known to laymen. He was relating the circumstance of the disagreement of Dr. Haynes and Vans Agnew concerning the proper medicine to give a horse that had been sick three days, and stated that a brother assistant had prepared a scheme whereby Dr. Vans Agnew would be caused to believe that his own and not Dr. Haynes' prescription had been given. This plan was to put up Vans Agnew's prescription in a bottle and then dispose of the medicine by throwing it in a sewer. Then the witness added, "Let Dr. Vans Agnew smell of the bottle and he will think everything is all right." The scheme was followed out.

"Did Dr. Vans Agnew ask the next morning if the medicine had been given? If so, what was the answer?"

"Yes," said the witness. "He did; and he was told yes." And then it was divulged that the horse must have heard of the doctor's prescription, for the witness added, "And the same horse got well all the same day."

Adjournment took place at 4:30 once again to await the arrival of Major McClure, who will figure prominently in all three pending cases; on account of his having made the investigation that resulted in the charges against the three disagreeing veterinarians.

YATES, EVANGELIST STOWAWAY, REAPPEARS IN HONOLULU STREETS

Sent Back to Mainland from Persia Finds Way of Reaching Hawaii

Harold Simon Yates, alleged evangelist soap-box minister and stowaway, has come back, and his presence was first made known in the Y. M. C. A. last night, where he was observed seated in front of the vicarage, from which issued the familiar strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers."

Yates was here some time ago and was a familiar sight each evening on the corner of Hotel and Nuuanu streets where surrounded by a crowd of small boys, soldiers and other persons he preached to all who would hear. He left for the coast suddenly and nothing was heard of him until a short time ago when the report came that with no other luggage than a Bible he had stowed away on the Persia out of San Francisco.

He was not discovered until the Persia was two days out, when he was found pacing the deck and reading his Bible. When asked why he had stowed away he replied that he wanted to go to the Orient as a missionary. The captain of the Persia at once got in touch with the Mongols, who was on her way to San Francisco. The two boats met and Yates was transferred to the Mongolia and taken back to the mainland.

TAMMEN TALKS WITH JUDGE MAN TO MAN, AND GOES FREE

Denver Publisher Recently in Honolulu Is Discharged in Contempt Case—Tells Jurist Trial Is Like Dogfight—Has Remarkable Colloquy with Bench

H. H. Tamm, the Denver, Colo., newspaper publisher who was in Honolulu recently for his health, and who returned to accept service of a bench warrant charging him with contempt of court, was discharged from custody by the judge who issued the warrant, according to the Denver Post, Tamm's paper.

Tamm, it appears, told the judge in a man to man talk that while most of the alleged contemptuous articles were written and published while he was away, he was yet willing to accept full responsibility for them. Tamm's frankness appeared to appeal to the jurist's sense of justice.

The Denver Post has the following to say of the case:

"Harry H. Tamm, one of the proprietors of the Denver Post, was discharged yesterday by Judge Shattuck after a hearing on the accusation of being in contempt of court, lodged against him some weeks ago while he was on a trip to Hawaii for his health.

The violence of 'Short' Horne Chiles, the special prosecuting officer, whose language, partaking of the barroom rather than the halls of justice, called forth a stern rebuke from John T. Bottom and later Booth M. Malone, counsel for the accused, and disgusted everyone who heard it.

"The severity of the strictures passed upon him by the dignified counsel on the other side struck deep into the soul of the prosecutor, who became lachrymose and referred to himself as 'a tool of Bill Evans.' Thus out of the mouths of babes and sucklings comes truth, if not wisdom.

Siege Guns And Howitzers Will Bombard Mt. Kaala

Coast Artillerymen Practice with "Pups of War" at Schofield

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence]
Schofield Barracks, Sept. 12, 1912.
Today is the date for the hard working Coast Artillery from Fort Ruger to have their annual target firing with the big siege guns and powerful howitzers. All is in readiness and the 400 yard range swept clear of life so that when the five inch shells from the howitzers as those of seven inch diameter from the longer and sterner looking siege guns go flying up on Mt. Kaala's slopes to the west no danger will be incurred.

Four thousand yards is not more than one-third of the ranges that the husky men from Ruger fire their own pets but will be sufficient to test the gun detachments in the manipulation of the business looking "Pups of War" as the "Big gun soldiers" call their present playthings. Weighing about two tons each the howitzers sit squat on their heavy carriages and Captain Johnson's men have found no pneumatic or other aids when the keen-eyed "non-com" at the sighting device calls "trail right...or motions with hand to elevate or depress the wide-mouthed muzzle. It is all hand-and-back-work that swings the heavy short cylinders up or down or to right or left; but the visitors to Schofield Barracks have shown their brothers of the Field Artillery who eye them at their own labors that they are "on the job."

Nearly the howitzer crews the siege guns stand high and grim and they too dip or swing as the six men and two sergeants range them on the distant targets.

Within, both classes of guns have been brought to perfection in cleanliness and that alone shows the business-like way that has attended every move of the Ruger contingent since its arrival.

Captain Johnson and his assistants Lieuts. Williams and Umbert have evidently brought with them a willing and capable lot of soldiers since their camp is a model and their drills a march of steady improvement.

JOHNSON'S WIFE IS SUICIDE

[Associated Press Cable]
CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Jack Johnson, wife of the champion negro pugilist, committed suicide this morning by shooting herself through the head. Just before ending her life, she knelt in silent prayer in her bedroom with her two negro maids. Rising she exclaimed, "God pity a poor lonely woman," and before her attendants divined her intention she picked up a pistol and fired. She had repeatedly complained to her husband that since her marriage she had been shunned by the whites, and found no friends among the members of his race.

$42,000,000 TRUST FAILS

[Associated Press Cable]
NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The United States Motors Company, capitalized at $42,000,000, announced its failure today.

The United States Motors Company controlled the manufacture and sale of the "Columbia," "Standard," "Maxwell," "Liberty," "Buick," "Standard" Buick and "Sampson" machines. For these the Stoddard-Torrey, the Liberty Buick and the Standard Buick are represented in Honolulu by John constructed and their accuracy is of the highest degree as the quick turning of the rifling within their bores attests. The howitzers are sighted up to 8000 yards while the siege guns will blot out a landing force full five miles away, the graduations of the telescopic sighting devices reading 9900 yards. And as they use high angles of fire the shells have a wonderful way of searching out reverse slopes or poking their way over projecting headlands and dropping in a highly unexpected manner on a rakish submarine or sea scout nosing their way along shore to some landing place for a force off-shore.

Indeed, as one broad-backed corporal remarked when he had grasped the details of range and elevation "a tid bit bunch of helpers to the big girls out at Diamond Head."

Firing begins at 1:15 and, according to memorandum from Post Headquarters, all officers are invited to be present. There will probably be others. We are not as a nation given to military secrets, and, anyway, there is no secret about a seven inch siege gun. It is power personified.

Delegates of the eighth precinct of the fourth district held a caucus in Morgan's office at noon today. Vincent Fernandez, Jr., was elected chairman. The delegates declined to adopt the unit rule but a majority appeared to favor the open ballot. This matter, however, was not finally settled as one or two did not feel like blinding themselves on the proposition at this time. No steps were taken toward endorsing any candidates.
